

Horace, Sermones 2.6: The Country Mouse and the City Mouse, Part 1

Horace was born in Venusia (south central Italy) on December 8, 65 BCE. His father (or grandfather) had been a slave in the important Horatii gens of Rome, and, according to standard Roman practice, upon his manumission his family adopted the Roman name. While Horace was pursuing his education at Rome and later Athens, civil war erupted between Caesar and Pompey. Unfortunately, Horace joined the wrong side, Pompey's, and ended up losing his family farm but was spared by Caesar.

Maecenas, the secretary of the arts for Octavian (soon-to-be Augustus), took the penniless Horace under his powerful wing and began supporting the fledgling poet as part of the imperial program fostering the native arts in Rome, including poetry written in Latin. Horace would never know hunger and poverty again. Augustus would try to convince him to become more active in the government, but Horace preferred the simple pleasures and joys of life: friendship, travel, the lighter side of love, the scenery of nature.

Our excerpt comes from Horace's second book of Sermones ("Conversations"), satirical poems on a multitude of topics. The sixth is a hymn to his contentment with his farm and the simple life he leads in the country. In the first part of the poem, Horace sits around the campfire with friends, and someone praises wealth. One of Horace's companions, Cervius ("Bucky"), recounts a tale of a country mouse who invited a friend from the city to dinner only to be told that his way of life is narrow and shabby.

Olim

Once upon a time,

rusticus urbanum murem mus paupere fertur
a country mouse is said to have received a city mouse

80 accepisse cavo, veterem vetus hospes amicum, in his poor hole, an old friend (and) old guest,

asper et attentus quaesitis, ut tamen artum unrefined and attentive to his supplies, (and) although frugal, solveret hospitii animum. quid multa? neque ille he could relax his basic nature for guests. Why (say) more? He did not sepositi ciceris nec longae invidit avenae, begrudge the select chick-pea nor the long-grained oat,

[continued on the next page]

aridum et ore ferens acinum semesaque lardi 85 and he offered a dried grape seed and half-eaten morsels of bacon carrying (them) frusta dedit, cupiens varia fastidia cena in his mouth, hoping to overcome with various food vincere tangentis male singula dente superbo, the disdain of the one hardly touching (them) one by one with a haughty tooth, cum pater ipse domūs paleā porrectus in hornā after the master of the house himself, having stretched out on (a bed of) this year's chaff, eset ador loliumque, dapis meliora relinquens.

was eating spelt and darnel, leaving behind the better parts of the banquet.

tandem urbanus ad hunc “quid te iuvat” inquit, “amice,” 90
At length the city (mouse) said to that one, “What fun is it for you, (my) friend, praerupti nemoris patientem vivere dorso?

to live (in such) suffering on the edge of a rough pastureland?

vis tu homines urbemque feris praeponere silvis?
Don't you want to put men and the city before the savage woods?

carpe viam, mihi crede, comes, terrestria quando Seize the way, trust me, pal, since things on earth mortalīs animas vivunt sortita neque ulla est have been allotted mortal souls and there is no aut magno aut parvo letj fuga: quo, bone, circa 95 escape from death for either the great or the small: therefore, good (fellow), dum licet, in rebus iucundis vive beatus, while one may, live happy in pleasant circumstances, vive memor, quam sis aevi brevis.” live mindful of how short-lived you are.”

Worksheet – Horace, The City Mouse and the Country Mouse, Part 1

a. The questions below pertain to the forms underlined in the passage

b. When you're asked to change a word from one form to another, change only that form of the word. For instance, if you're asked to change habet to the passive voice, make habet passive but leave it in the 3rd person singular, present indicative.

1. What case is rusticus and why? _____
2. Change fertur to perfect subjunctive plural. _____
3. Make accepisse passive (nom. masc. sing.). _____
4. Make asper plural. _____
5. Make solveret pluperfect. _____
6. What case is multa and why? _____
7. Make ciceris plural. _____
8. Change invidit to present. _____
9. What case is ore and why? _____
10. Make dedit future plural. _____
11. What mood is vincere and why? _____
12. Change tangentis to perfect subjunctive (2nd pl). _____
13. What mood is esset and why? _____
14. Make meliora superlative. _____
15. Make amice plural. _____
16. Make patientem future passive. _____

[continued on the next page]

17. Make praeponere perfect passive (nom. sing. neut.). _____
18. What case is silvis and why? _____
19. What mood is carpe and why? _____
20. Change sortita to future perfect indicative (3rd sing.). _____
21. Make leti ablative plural. _____
22. Make licet imperfect. _____
23. Change vive to present subjunctive. _____
24. What case is beatus and why? _____
25. What mood is sis and why? _____

Notes/Vocabulary—Horace, City Mouse and Country Mouse, Part 1

79. olim: (adverb) once upon a time
80. rusticus: rusticus, -a, -um: of or belonging to the country urbanum: urbanus, -a, -um: of or belonging to the city mus: mus, muris, m/f.: mouse paupere: pauper, -eris: poor (with cavo in the next line: “in [his] poor hole”) fertur: “(a country mouse) is said”; lit. “is conveyed (in conversation)” 81. cavo: cavum, -i, n.: (mouse) hole veterum: vetus, -eris: old hospes: hospes, hospitis, m.: host 82. asper: asper, -era, -erum: rough; here, unrefined attentus: attendo, -ere, attendi, attentum: careful, attentive quaesitis: lit. “things having been sought out”; here, supplies ut tamen: although artum: artus, -a, -um: frugal
83. solveret: solvo, -ere, solvi, solutum: relax; i.e. his normally frugal way of life hospitiis: “when guests visited,” lit. “for friendships” quid multa: “Why (say) many things?,” i.e. “Why go on?”
neque ille: a colloquial phrase, “No, he (i.e. the country mouse) was not the mouse to hold back on...”
84. sepositi: sepositus, -a, -um: select ciceris: cicer, -eris, n.: chick-pea (genitive with invidit) invidit: invideo, -ere, -vidi, -visum: begrudge ; + somebody (acc.) something (gen.) avenae: avena, -ae, f.: oat longae...avenae: long-grained oat
85. et: (treat as if postpositive; translate before aridum) aridum: aridus, -a, -um: dry ore: os, oris, n.: mouth acinum: acinus, -i, n.: grape seed semesaque: sem/esa: sem(i) = “half”; esus (from edo, -ere, edi, esum: eat); half-eaten lardi: lardum, -i, n.: the fat of bacon 86. frusta: frustum, -i, n.: morsel varia: varius, -a, -um: various fastidia: fastidium, -i, n.: disgust; plural for singular; object of vincere (87) cena: cena, -ae, f.: meal, food

87. male: (adverb) hardly singula: singulus, -a, -um: one by one; here, neuter plural substantive dente: dens, dentis, m.: tooth superbo: superbus, -a, -um: haughty
88. paleā: palea, -ae, f.: chaff porrectus: porrigo, porrigere, porrexi, porrectum: lie stretched out hornā: hornus, -a, -um: recent, this year's
89. esset: edo, esse, edi, esum: eat ador: ador, -oris, n.: spelt (an old kind of wheat) loliumque: lolium, -i, n.: darnel (ryegrass) dapes: daps, dapis, f.: banquet
90. tandem: (adverb) at length
91. praerupti: praerumpo, -ere, praerupi, praeruptum: break off in front; here, rough nemoris: nemus, -oris, n.: pastureland beside a wooded area dorso: dorsum, -i, n.: back; here, on the edge (locative ablative) 92. vis tu: idiom: "Don't you...?"
feris: ferus, -a, -um: savage silvis: silva, -ae, f.: woods 93. carpe: carpo, -ere, carpsi, carptum: pluck out; enjoy; here, seize comes: comes, comitis, m/f.: companion; here, pal terrestria: terrestris, -e: (things/creatures) of the earth quando: (adverb) when; sometimes causal: since, because; here, postpositive 94. mortalīs: mortalis, -e: mortal; here, mortalīs = mortales (acc. pl.) vivunt: = sunt
sortita: sortior, -iri, sortitus: allot 95. leti: letum, -i, n.: death; here, genitive with fuga ("escape from") fuga: fuga, -ae, f.: escape quo...circa: quocirca: therefore
97. memor: memor, -oris: mindful; + genitive aevi: aevum, -i, n.: life-time aevi brevis: genitive of description